That key is almost always the option of dialogue in which or ask more caps or you say something sarcastic. If you don't want to spend half an hour to watch the loading screens, take the Chems a lot. He loves that shit. Not only to increase him affinity of him, but also because he has some really good jokes. What I don't recommend is what affects maceandy. Seriously, it works like a charm. If you want to please Maceandy, just choose X whenever possible in conversations. At Maccready they like both. The rapid prestige resets the affinity timer and the fast journey somewhere restores the fact that you are naked - apparently more effective than in reality only to retrieve and undress again - which likes Hancock. I noticed that my first players couples await me in Dogmeat and Nick Valentine's Day because those are the only ones that I really like them, but they never really give other occasions. Those seem to be just a little shit. À ç à, - "He didn't even start my referee. He also likes when you take chems. It works too much. At the old longfellow like your partner whenever you make the missions in which aid the à ç
